A warm welcome

"Dear Esteemed Members and Colleagues of the European Nanomedicine Community,

We are thrilled to announce that for the first time, our ETPN annual event will take place in Italy! ETPN2024 in Milan is not just another scientific conference; it's the premier gathering for strategic thinking and collaboration in the field of nanomedicine. This event promises to be a cornerstone for those looking to be at the forefront of translating nanomedicine innovations into real-world patient care. With a lineup of distinguished speakers and interactive poster sessions, we go beyond traditional academic discourse to foster the birth of new European projects, both through our structured brokerage sessions and our dynamic, socially engaging activities infused with the warmth of Iberian hospitality. This year, we are also placing special emphasis on empowering the young, emerging talents in our field. Join us in Milan for an experience that is not only enlightening but pivotal in shaping the future of nanomedicine, as we collectively strive to bring its benefits to patients more rapidly and effectively. We look forward to welcoming you to this landmark event, where being part of our community means being part of a strategic revolution in healthcare."

Prof. Raymond Schiffelers

Chairman, ETPN

"Dear colleagues,

I am thrilled to announce that ETPN2024 will be hosted in the dynamic and vibrant city of Milan, which is not only my home but also the location of my research hospital, Don Gnocchi Foundation. As one of the first founding members of ETPN, we have always believed in ETPN mission. And it has been a true pleasure contributing to this brilliant community..

Being deeply committed to bridging the gap between innovative nanomedicine research and its practical application in clinical settings, this event holds immense significance for me. Collaborating with my colleagues at UniMORE and the ETPN to organize this conference underscores our collective dedication to advancing the field. ETPN2024 transcends being merely a conference; it represents a milestone for nanomedicine in Italy and Europe, promising to catalyze new ideas, partnerships, and advancements. I am eagerly looking forward to welcoming the global community to Milan."

Dr. Marzia Bedoni

WG leader Clinical Translation (ETPN) / Head of Nanomedicine and Clinical Biophotonics Unit (FDG)

"Dear ETPN delegates, colleagues, and friends,

UniMORE, deeply rooted in Italy's rich academic tradition, is at the heart of groundbreaking nanomedicine research driven by a large team of passionate researchers. Proudly part of the ETPN family for years, we're excited to co-host ETPN2024 with the Don Gnocchi Foundation. It's more than just a meeting; it's a chance to push the boundaries of nanomedicine, connect with fellow innovators, and inspire the next generation of scientists. We're all about making big leaps in research, networking, and creating new opportunities. Can't wait to see you there and make ETPN2024 unforgettable!"

Prof. Giovanni Tosi

Secretary of the ETPN, Full Professor, Ph.D. at University of Modena and Reggio Emilia (UNIMORE)

Keynote speakers

Prof. Elena Cattaneo

Centre for Stem Cell Research of the University of Milano
Senator for life of the Italian Republic

Prof. Cristina Messa

Program highlights

Diverse Scientific Exploration:

Deep dives into clinical translation of nanomedicine, advancements in cell and gene therapies, and understanding regulatory pathways, aimed at shaping the future of nanomedicine.

Innovative Platform Sessions:

- Dissemination of EU Projects: Unveiling the impact and outcomes of significant EU-funded nanomedicine projects.
- EU Funding Brokerage: Facilitating connections and discussions around upcoming EU funding opportunities.
- "Pitch Me Up!" Session: A unique platform for presenting selected innovations, distinctly set apart from scientific discussions to highlight the ecosystem's dynamism.

Empowerment of Young Researchers: Focused initiatives for young scientists including networking opportunities, engaging poster sessions, and dynamic social events, all designed to promote community building and collaborative research.

Possibility of specialized sponsor talks on pioneering innovations, reserved for selected contributions.

The Università degli Studi di Milano (UNIMI), a beacon of academic and research excellence, is the esteemed host of ETPN2024. Founded in 1924, UNIMI is not only one of Europe's largest universities but also a prestigious institution, situated in the historic heart of Milan. It is a dynamic academic community of over 60,000 students, offering a diverse range of programs. Known for its rigorous multidisciplinary research and state-of-the-art facilities, UNIMI is particularly noted for its contributions to nanomedicine and healthcare innovations. By hosting ETPN2024, UNIMI showcases its commitment to fostering scientific dialogue and advancing medical technologies, aligning with its legacy as a leader in both academia and research, set against the backdrop of Milan's rich cultural tapestry.
